LILLIES.

In my garden there are lillies, Lillies swaying to and fro, Golden lillies, rosy lillies, Lillies white as driven snow.

Here the blezing tiger illy, There the evening illy pale, And in corners dark and shady Little lillies of the vale.

Here the lenten yellow lillies, There the iris—fleur de lis. In the most are water lillies White and yellow, floating free.

In my garden there are lillies, And the wild bees come and go, Seeking honey from my lillies Swaying slowly to and fro.

WOULD PREY ON DOCTORS. Tricks to Get Them Out of Their Office and Then Rob Them. New York World.

Some vagabonds who think the world owes them a living have banded together to prey on the physicians of the West side. One of them will call a doctor out to visit an imaginary patient and in the physician's absence another will try to gain entrance to his office in the hope of being able to walk off with a clock or acase of surgical instruments, or something else. As the first visitor never sends the doctor far, it is extremely likely that whoever opens the door to his confederate, will ask him to walk in and wait.

Dr. W. C. McFarland lives at 440 West Forty-severally street Monday

West Forty-seventh street. Monday afternoon a man whom he did not know went to the doctor's office and asked him to hurry around to a patient at No. 672 Tenth avenue. Then the unknown man went away. It was not long before Dr. McFarland reached the house on Tenth avenue, and when he got there he met Dr. E. A. Bracklow, of No. 405 West Forty-sixth street, who was on the same errand.

was on the same errand.

While the doctors were wondering what grave case required the attention of both they were astounded to see two more physicians approach. They had been called there too, to prescribe for the same sick man, who did not exist, as they soon discovered. Then Dr. McFarland and Dr. Bracklow went back to their offices on the run, prepared for the next man who would try to play that trick on them. that trick on them.

Dr. McFarland had not long to wait. Dr. McFarland had not long to wait. That very night a roughly dressed man rang his bell. The doctor's housekeeper, a woman of superior intelligence, opened the door, and the man asked:

"Are you Dr. McFarland's mother?"

"No; I am his housekeeper."

"Oh, he has a housekeeper. Well, you tell him to come as quick as he can to such and such a house on Eleventh avenue. My mother is yery sick with heart disease."

Soon after Dr. McFarland set out for the house mentioned another stranger came to his office.
"Tell the doctor," said he, "that he needn't come to that house on Eleventh avenue. We've got another doctor."
But Dr. McFarland had gone. When he reached the address given a third man was standing in the doorway.

man was standing in the doorway.

"The other doctor ordered us to send inother to the country," was his lame excuse. The presence of the house-keeper had plainly upset all their plans. Again on Tuesday night, when Dr. McFarland was out, a man rang his bell, and the housekeeper went to the door.

"I wantto see the doctor," said the visitor.

visitor.

"He is not at home."

"Oh, but he must be. He left me on the car a little while ago and told me to come to his office."

"He is not at home."

"Well, then, I will go in and wait."

"Uis office is locked and he has the key." returned the housekeeper, growing more suspicious than ever.

At that the visitor grew so angry and insulting that the shrewd woman called the janitor of the flats to her aid. When the janitor appeared the other man

FORGOT THE CARRIAGE.

Why a Wedding was Delayed and the Guests Grew Nervous.

A curious incident happened at a church wedding in this city the other evening, says the Utica Observer. It was a society affair and at 8 o'clock, the hour appointed for the ceremony, the church was crowded with guests. The minister who was to officiate was there, minister who was to omcinte was there, also the groom, usbers and bridesmaids, but the bride was not.

Ten minutes after 8—twenty minutes after 8, still no bride appeared. The geople in the church were growing impatient. Half-past 8, and still no bride!

The groom was very anxious. Had her courage failed her at the last moment?

Had she ceased to love him and cloped with another man? Had her house burned and she perished in the fames? with another man? Had her house burned and she perished in the flames? Had the carriage broken down and injured her?

jured her?

These were some of the questions that ran through his mind, leaving their impress on his face. Eight thirty-five! The bridesmaids bit their lips, tugged nervously at their ribbons and unconsciously despoiled their bouquets. Was she not coming? Vague rumors ran through the audience, and the minister himself, used to all sorts of curious things at weldlings becan to wonder.

himself, used to all sorts or curious things at weddings, began to wonder. A council of war was held and it was decided to send another carriage after her post haste. Another—when the facts became known no carriage at all had been sent for her.

During all this time the drivers supposed that the craemony had been in progress. In the excitement the principal factor had been forgotten. It is needless to say that no time was lost in transporting the bride to the altar, and at 8:45, three-quariers of an hour late, the nuptial knot was tied and the belated bride and the happy groom went on their way.

It is boasted that in a test one of our new American guns threw a 1,000-pound projectile a distance of twelve miles. A non-military would ask, What does the gunner propose to hit with such a shot? It might be fired at random into the center, say, of the State of Rhode Island, but as a practical weapon of war it would do no more definite damage than the much excited Major Spruggins did when he stood in the middle of the highway and "swore at large." highway and "swore at large."

Say, Mister:

Is it possible you are suffering from catarrh, and have not used Dr. Sage's Catarrh and have not used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? All the terrible consequences of catarrh in the head may be averted if you'll but make the effort! You know, too well, its distressing symptoms! You possibly know, if neglected, it hivariably goes from bad to worse, and is likely to go into consumption and end in the grave! Here is a way of escape: Its makers are willing to take all the risk, and make a standing offer of $300 for an incurable case of this loathsome and dangerous disease. You can get $500, or better—a cure! Say, Mister!
